Foreword

It is my great pleasure to write a foreword for this book Practical Obstetrics and Gynecology Volume II compiled by Dr Nirmala Saxena.

Simplified books on important practical topics in Obstetrics and Gynecology are the need of the day. Many of our obstetric and gynecological problems are not discussed in western books.

This book deals with topics of Infections, Kala-azar, Obstructed Labor, Cancer Screening and also with the newer scientific advances like Stem Cells.

Practical Obstetrics and Gynecology is a well-compiled book by expert and I am sure the readers will find useful information.

Preface

We feel great pleasure in bringing out the second volume of “Practical Obstetrics and Gynecology”, three years after the publication of Volume I in the year 2006.

We are greatly overwhelmed by the response we received by our senior and fellow colleagues in contributing the chapters in this book.

Chapters in obstetrics like “Destructive operations and its re-emergence in developing countries”, and “Hidden disabilities of obstructed labor” will make new generations acquainted, which they might not have seen in the last three decades.

Chapters like “Infections and infectious exposures during pregnancy and role of modern safe antibiotics” will update every practising obstetrician regarding choosing the safe drug for pregnant women.

Topic on “Management of retained placenta and uterine inversion at primary, secondary and tertiary centers” will give guidelines to doctors working in primary and secondary centers.

The articles on “Malaria” and “Kala-azar” (common ailments present now) will be helpful in their management.

In Gynecology “Laparoscopic versus conventional radical hysterectomy” and various aspects of ovarian malignancies will update the practising doctors.

Chapters on “Stem cell and therapeutic advantages” and “Genetic counseling” are comparatively new and will be helpful for the practising gynecologists in this era of medicolegal age.

Many other chapters written by several learned authors will update all of us. It is like a hand book and should be always with the postgraduates and practising doctors for having quick reference.

xii PRACTICAL OBSTETRICS AND GYNECOLOGY

We are greatly obliged to all the learned authors who have contributed in this book and thankful to M/s Jaypee Brothers Medical Publishers (P) Ltd, New Delhi for its publication.
